Qualitative

Strengths of the course and of the instructor: -

- Jordan helps better our understanding of concepts we learn in lecture by providing us with exercises where we apply our knowledge to it.
- Very passionate about material and respects time of students
- He was very helpful in engaging students into the ideas of the class of the lecture. Very enthusiastic about the material.

Weaknesses of the course and of the instructor: -

- Grading was very harsh. All the ideas that I had tried to implement seemed incorrect because one word would change the whole idea of topic and be incorrect. Because of this, I would get deducted a decent amount than what I felt like I deserved. Philosophy is a very open ended subject an because of it, does not seem like a right or wrong answer to things but does not seem like the case for this class.
- Tends to talk over students without letting them finish sentences. Doesn't really like to be contradicted or wrong. Somewhat unapproachable. Easily frustrated and is visibly so.
- He's actually a dick. Belongs in a middle school classroom where he can treat people like children.
